"I have the proof that outside investors were heavy buyers of Western Union during the past two weeks. The stock has been taken from the street and transferred. Concerning the market I have very little to say. I believe parties with capital are anxious to get securities at the present figures and have every reason to suppose that we have passed through the troubles. I was talking to a prominent bank officer this morning. He declares that we have nothing to fear from our associated banks and each day brings a brighter outlook."

NEW YORK, May 22.—Three affidavits were made against Ferdinand Ward by J. Nelson Tappan, Mr. Tappan's son, and a Mr. Bingham, whose identity is not established. He is in Tappan's employ. Rumors are floating in Wall street this afternoon, but they can be traced to no reliable source, that U. S. Grant, jr., has left for Canada.

PITTSBURG, PA., May 22.—A more complete understanding of the exact condition of the Penn Bank and a feeling that they will be able to pay all liabilities, together with the concerted action of the bankers last night, has had a reassuring effect, and confidence to a large extent has been restored. It was feared that there would be runs on several banks reported on the street last night as in a weak conreported on the street last night as in a weak condition, but a visit to the alleged shaky institutions at noon found all screne, with checking out not much greater than usual. The bankers expressed themselves as perfectly able to meet the demands made on them. The officers of the Fenn Bank are busy to-day getting affairs in shape for resumption tomorrow. Their clearances were made good to-day, and to-morrow they will open their doors with $000,000 in cash on the counters. Many of the largest depositors have signified their intention of allowing their money to lie in the bank, and long before the regular hour for opening this morning a number of the heaviest depositors forced their way to the side entrance and insisted on making deposits. The bank refused to accept them, however, until they resume to-morrow.

On the floor of the Oil Exchange there was not much doing. The market opened firm at 73, advanced to 76, but dropped off at noon to 744. The feeling is unsettled and no orders are coming in.

New York, May 22 .- In the three suits con in the Supreme Court against A. W. Dimock & Co., brokers, attachments were granted against the hill to recover $22,275, losses sustained in purchases and sales by plaintiff. At the instigation of the defendants of the stock of the Bankers and Merchants' Telegraph Company, plaintiff borrowed $7,000 from defendants, but alleges that over and above all counter claims there is due him $13,175. The second brought by Delos P. Phelps and Wm. Hanna, is to recover $79,606. Plaintiffs borrowed $100,000 from defendant, and to secure payment of loan lodged with them, 300 first mortgage bonds of the Central Iowa Railway Company, Illinois Division, par value $100,000 each. It was acreed the firm might rehypothecate these for not exceeding $10,000. It is alleged the firm rehypothecated the securifies for the repayment of $20,000 which was borrowed by them from various persons. This pledge was concealed from plaintiffs until after Dimock & Co. failed. Plaintiffs claim they sustained a loss of $70,606. The third attachment is by Wilberforce & Sulley for $124,744. The papers allege between October, 183, and April 31, 1834, Wilberforce purchased $2,100 shares of telegraph companies stock at various prices under agreement with Dimock & Co. similar to that of Underhill, and he sustained a loss of $34,744. The attachments were granted in each case on the ground the firm disposed of its property with intent to defraud the creditors by posponing payment of claims of the general creditors until the individual debts were paid.

Late last night a Post-Disparce correspondent rapped at the door. His summons for admittance was responded to by the Deputy Sheriff, who said that he had not the papers of complaint with him. him.
"You can walk in," said he, "and if Mr. Ward so desires, he will give the information desired."
A table in the centre of the room was laid with refreshments and cigars. The two had apparently been enjoying themselves as well as could be expected under the circumstances. At the interruption Mr. aWard turned a hasty glance toward the door.

expected under the circumstances. At the Interruption Mr. aWard turned a hasty glance toward the door.

"Mr. Ward, will you be kind enough to explain the cause leading to this agrest?"

"Mr. Ward made a faint effort to smile. His hitherts pallid countenance assumed a deep flush for a moment, which quickly died away, leaving an ashen paleness. "I can. to say nothing," he finally replied with an effort to stiffe his emotion. "The matter is in the hands of my attorney, Mr. J. E. Stillman, who will look after my welfare. I have been persecuted to the bitter end."

"What course will you pursue in the morning?"

"I shall look for a bondsman. I cannot talk further," and Mr. Ward relapsed into a deep reverie. After a few moments silence he started to his feet and taking, a cigar, lighted it. The fragrant Havans seemed to revive him and he resumed his seat in apparently much better spirits, and he finally refused to talk.

"Mr. Ward has yet made no effort to get a bondsman, but that will be his first errand in the morning," said the Deputy Sheriff to the reporter as he passed out. "I brought him here by his own request," said the officer. "He has the right to settle for as many comforts as he desires, until he gets bailed or comes to trial. My only duty is my responsibility for his safe keeping. If I choose to place him in quarters he designates, he can pay the bill and Fean maintain personal charge over him. He Dissired A Quiet Place and a night's rest before proceeding farther. I cannot say who he contemplates seeing to procure the proper qualifications for a release."

To a reporter last night Mr. Hubbard said that Mr. Ward had expressed a desire to make a clean breast of the whole of his Wall street transactions. He had admitted that he had wronged a great number in the interest of a few, and he had sought Butler, Stillman and Hubbard to advise him and help him in making a fair distribution of his property so that all who had suffered at his hands might realize an equitable proportion. "It appears there have been a favored few among whom the name of Warner appears, who not only realized suspicious profits that were alleged to have existed, but to whom Mr. Ward gave preferences when he found himself financially wrecked and in trouble. Now he desires to set these preferences adde in restitution. We, as a firm, were interested only in following him up in behalf of certain of his creditors. He has admitted to us his guilt in several transactions, and has said that now he is ready to suffer such punishment as the law may decide he deserves. "He insists," added Mr. Hubbard. "that there are those who should suffer with him, but he does not desire to implicate any one to shield himself. I consider that the circumstances of the case justified his arrest."

WARD'S SWINDLING SCHEMBS.

The list of the loans made to Grant & Ward was made public yesterday by Mr. Francis N. Hangs. It gives a very clear idea of the immensity of the schemes and swindling operations carried on by the two worthies, Messrs. Fish and Ward. The total amount owed by the firm on collar rall on the morning of the failure was $10.804,000, and nearly every institution and corporation in the city loaning money appears to have helped to supply the firm with the funds necessary for the prosecution of these op

A Bank President Threatened.

y Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, May 22.—The depositors of the de funct Newark Savings Institution met in the Academy of Music in Newark last night, and for two hours there was the wildest confusion, and threats of lynching President Dodd were made. Nearly one thousand persons, representing over $1,500,000 in deposits, responded to the call of three of the heaviest depositors, for the purpose of devising means for protecting their interests and dealing with the officers of the bank. Most of them were workmen in their shirt sleeves, with coats upon their arms. The majority were Germans, and they gesticulated wildly as they discussed among themselves the probability of losing all, if not a great share of their savings of years. The proceedings were opened in English, and instantly a wild cry went up from the gallery that all speeches be made in German. Alexander Volheye called the meeting to order, and explained that the business before them was to determine, if possible, the exact state of the bank's affairs, which were becoming darker as at the days went by. He cautioned the depositors to act calmly yet to insist that their rights be accorded without delay. This was greeted with a round of cheers and hat-swinging. Then it was resolved to have two chairmen—one to speak English and the other German. Philip Roth, a German, and ex-Alderman Lyon, an American, were elected. Somebody funct Newark Savings Institution met in the Acade of frauds to dictate to us."
"Why don't you propose President Dodd?" some one cried.

"Hang him. Where is he, the old thiet" "String him up," were some of the shouts that then filled the hall. Both chairmen rapped for order, but it was several minutes before the turnult subsided. When there was a semblance of order, Mr. Charles F. Brickeling, a lawyer, representing a large number for contempt of court, but that he was told not to press his suit, inasmuch as it would not be to their interest to have the president removed from his duties. The Vice-Chancellor had informed him that dollar for dollar would be paid, and that Fisk & Hatch had given their promise to settle honorably. This had the effect of quieting the crowd, but when Director Fraenzel ascended the platform with a paper in his hand and demanded to be heard they cried again, "Fire him out." The director folded his hands and awaited developments. Finally he raised both hands and in a tremulous voice begged to be heard. "Upon my honor, gentlemen," he pleaded, "I was at the bank at 5 o'clock to-day and the report on this paper is as true as I am standing before you—only listen to me. I have a transcript of the affairs of the bank as the books showed on May 15. I have them from the book-keeper, copied before my eyes." His voice was drowned and several of the more excited made threatening gestures, so he stepped down to avoid violence. Confusion now reigned supreme, and the shouts filled the hall. Ex-Alderman Lyon took up the statement and attempted to read it, but was hissed down. Order was restored by offering a motion to appoint a committee of ten to investigate the bank's affairs, which was carried with three cheers, the Germans reserving the right to have seven of

He halled a Broadway bus in which were only two passengers, and seated himshelf in a reclining posture, with his head resting on one arm supported by the window, casing. The Deputy Sheriff took a seat opposite, facing his prisoner. In front of the Sindard House he opened the door with a nervous thich, and, swinging himself to the ground, hurried hito the hotel office. The Deputy Sheriff held a whispered consultation with the clerk, which was concluded by that individual turning the register about. Ward's signature was formed in very fine lines, running closely together, so that it was uninstelligible to one who had no knowledge of its author. Underneath the Deputy Sheriff inscribed his own amme. The pair then adjourned to the bar-room, where drinks and cigars were ordered, after which they were shown to room No. 13, on the second floor, and his attitude toward his creditors, that the Vaniderbilt incident is becoming a matter of great interest. The original story was, that when the firm as about to collapse. Ferdinand Ward requested Ulysses Grant, jr., to raise a large amount of money, as it was needed very badly. Mr. Grant, it was said, went to several prominent capitalists, among them
Jay Gould, who refused to lend any money bea cause the securities offered were not considered good. This part of the story has since been denied by Mr. Gould himself. When matters became desperate, Gen. Grant was asked to raise the money on the representation that it was needed to cover heavy contract. On the Sunday preteding the a collapse the ex-president called at the house of Mr. Vanderbilt and asked for a check for $150,000, promising to send his own check for the amount to Mr. Vanderbilt and saked for a check for Grant sent Mr. Vanderbilt and on Monday Gen, Grant sent Mr. Vanderbilt and to fall his real estate to Mr. Vanderbilt.
The General

and the total amount of property owned by him was just about sufficient to repay Mr. Van-derbit. The millionaire at once returned the deeds with a note expressing his sympathy for the Gen-eral, and saying that the loan matter could stand over indefinitely, as he could not think of accepting the deeds under such circumstances. When Mr. Vanderbiit was asked about the subject on the day that he departed for Europe, he said: "That is a question which I don't think it would be fair for me

My relations with Gen. Grant were of a personal nature."

It is known that Gen. Grant has been very much borne down by the whole affair, but he insists upon paying his debt to Mr. Vanderbilt. His sons have personally assumed all the debts which they contracted for the firm, but this was the only debt contracted by the General. His wife is as desirous as her husband that the obligation should be discharged, although it ruins both of them and leaves them poor, except from the assured income of the General. A friend of the ex-President said a few days ago that Gen. Grant did not want his property to go into the hands of the receiver for Grant & Ward, as it would leave him still in debt to Mr. Vanderbilt. The fact that the money borrowed was swallowed up in a day makes him feel his position keenly.

Sage Startles the Street.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, May 22.—Wall street was startled yesterday by a report that Mr. Russell Sage had given incredulity, but when it was learned that it was in leed a fact that Mr. Sage had entertained Mr. Jay Gould, Mr. W. E. Connor and Mr. Russell Sage, jr., incredulity gave place to amazement, and brokers looked each other in the face and asked: "What does this thing mean?" Mr. Russell Sage, jr., is a hephew of the great capitalist, and it is said that he makes his headquarters at the firm of R. P. Fowler makes his headquarters at the firm of R. P. Fowler & Co. The significance of the lunch party is explained by a gentleman intimate with Mr. Sage, as follows: "Thesday night Mr. Gould and Mr. Connor went to Mr. Sage's house and had an interview with the great "put" and "call" operator. The result of this interview was a notice sent through the Associated Press that Mr. Sage would meet his privileges promptly the next morning. It is understood that Mr. Gould represented to Mr. Sage that his policy in regard to his "puts" was causing continued disturbance in the market and that he must meet his obligations more promptly. The result was that Mr. Sage through one of the sage that we had been succeeded in the market and that he must meet his obligations more promptly. A prominent Mills building lawyer, who has been engaged by holders of Sage's "puts" to deliver the stock, said yesterday: "It was engaged because I knew Sage and can always get into the office. Besides he is a little afraid of the law: I delivered to him a lot of Pacific Mail at 50, which he promptly paid." It is said that a quantity of Northwestern "puts" at 43 were delivered to Mr. Sage yesterday at 834, Pacific Mail at 50, which he promp & Co. The significance of the lunch party is ex-

BENNETT'S OCEAN CABLE.

The American Shore End Landed at Rockport, Mass., To-Day.
ROCKPORT, Mass., May 22.—The arrival of the Faraday was greeted by a thousand people and the ring of cannon. The shore end was landed and will be connected with the section previously buoyed 250 miles east of Rockport. The citizens tendered a reception to the officers, but they declined until the cable is completed. When the Faraday steams away this afternoon she will proceed to the buoy, 250 miles to the northeast, where she will splice the cable, thus making a complete circuit from Dover Bay to Rockport. She will then steam thirty miles to the east of Dover Bay, take up and splice the shore end laid from Dover Bay toward the Irish coast. When this splice is made she will sail for Ireland, paying out 1,000 miles of the deep sea section. She will then buoy the end of the section and proceed to London for the remainder of the deep sea section. After taking this on board she will go back to the buoy and finish laying the deep sea section to the Irish coast.

By Telegraph to the Fost Dispatch:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—There has been a good deal of grumbling of late about the fact that while mails from Mexico are now brought oven the new railroad line, thus reaching here in five days from the City of Mexico, those going the other way are still sent by steamer from New Orleans, and are double that time en route. The Posts explains that the delay in this regard is caused at the Mexican end of the line, he having written that Government suggesting that arrangements for inter change of mails by this line be made, and while he has a promise, he has nothing else. PUBLIC HEALTH COMMITTEE.

The House Committee on Public Health to-day agreed to report adversely on the bill extending the powers of the National Board of Health. It also agreed to report a resolution appropriating $200,000 as a contingent fund, to be drawn at the discretion of the President, which includes the unexpended balance of the appropriating $200,000 aslaries and expenses of the Board of Health. This action of the committee will settle the dispute between the National Board of Health. THE HOUSE.

Bills passed authorizing the construction of bridges across the Missouri River at Rulo and Desatur, Neb. The Speaker laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a draft of the bill permitting the exportation of spirits by railroad routes to adjacent foreign territory, with the benefit of a drawback for internal revenue taxes paid thereon. Referred.

The House then resumed consideration of the English-Peelle contested election case, the pending question being on the motion to table the motion to reconsider the vote by which the House yesterday agreed to the minority resolution, confirming Peelle's right to his seat, as a substitute for the majority resolutions. The motion to table was lost by a tieves at 132, nays 132.

Between the first and second votes Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Lanham paired. Mr. Willow, who had voted with the Republicans on the notion to lay on the table, this time refrained from voting, and Mr. Warner of Ohio and Mr. Patton, who had not before voted on this motion, voted in the aritmative. This accounts for the change in the result.

Mr. Browne of Indiana 'moved to 'recommit the case to the Committee on Elections with instructions to recount the ballots for the contestant and tions to recount the ballots for the contestant and contestee in all the several voting precincts in the country of Marine and make a report of the result.

Mr. Springer made the point of order that the motion was not in order, as the rule which permitted a motion to recommit applied in terms to "bills" and not to "resolutions." He made further the point that even were it in order to recommit the resolution, it is as now too late to make the motion as the House had taken action under the operation of the previous question.

House had taken action under the speration of the previous question.

The Speaker overruled the point of order.

A decided sensation was created in the House this afternoon by the action of Mr. House in rising to the question of privileges and charging Hon. Wm. H. English with a violation of the privileges of an exmember by lobbying in the interest of his son as a contestant in the English-Feele election case. English was vigorously defended by Messrs. Randall and S. S. Cox, and no action was taken, though a resolution will probably be adopted to-day, directing the Committee on Rules to inquire whether Mr. English has violated the privileges of the floor.

Mr. Horr promised that if an investigation was ordered it would prove a good deal more than he had stated.

The House has adopted the resolution directing that a special committee of seven be appointed to inquire into the question whether ar not Hon. Wm. H. English had violated the privileges of the floor, and whether any ex-member employed as an attorney in any contested election case, or for any railroad or other corporation, has abused its privileges. Wm. English has been sworn in a member from the Seventh Indiana District. The linal vote was: yeas, 130; nays, 127.

By yeas 124, and nays 134, the Hot se refused to recommit the resolution.

slands, and seventy passengers drowned. THE WYCLIFFE CELEBRATION.
The Wycliffe celebration concluded with a great vening meeting at Exeter Hall. The Earl of Shafter bury presided. He said that of the reformers, Wycliffe, Luther and Tyndall, Wycliffe was perhaps the greatest. This Wycliffe movement will diffuse the greatest. This wyonic movement people information and knowledge among common people which hitherto only the learned possessed. Wycliffe's correct title is "Morning Star of the Reformation." England after his time would never again b subject to the rule of the Pope. The people of En-gland can only share their thankful appreciation of his life by cherishing his precepts and blessing God for the translation of the Scriptures he made.

Canon Taylor moved: "The quincentenary of John Wycliffe's death affords a suitable opportunity to commemorate his work as a patriot church re-former, translator and preacher of the Holy Script-ures." In making this, Canon Taylor said: "The great work which Wycliffe did for the church is now danger of being overthrown. We should beware of those who are trying to lead us back to darkness blindness, idolatry and medivalism," Taylor's mo tion carried. A motion also carried instructing the Memorial Committee to appeal for £10,000 to be used in the publication and circulation of Wy-cliffe's writings and the erection of a memorial

Rev. Hughes said: "Three men—the great Buptist preacher Spurgeon, the famous American revivalist Moody, and Gen. Booth, controlling the spirit of salvation, who represent Wycliffite teachings—wield more influence than all the priests in the 'churches of England put together. [Cheers.] Wycliffe dis-covered that the origin of the mischief which converted him was the suppression of the rights of lay-men in the Church. [Hear! hear!] I should like to see a layman preaching in every pulpit. The church needs the co-operation of godly men." Subscriptions of £400 were obtained.

Attachments for $37,876 07 Filed Against Kaufman, Cohn & Co.

The Failure of the Spring Trade Assigned as the Reason -Who the Creditors Are-History of the Firm.

Early this morning attachments aggregating more than $35,000 were made by various creditors against the well-known millinery firm of Kaufman, Cohn & Co., whose place of business is 419 Wash-Mr. W. C. Kennedy and Miss Maggie Stevenson, and Mr. W. C. Kennedy and Miss Maggie Stevenson, and Mr. W. C. Kennedy and Miss Hattle Stevenson.

making a total of $37,876 07. Nearly all of these are St. Louis people, Bierman's and Achard's claims being for cash advanced the firm to carry on its business. Mr. Ulman is Mr. Kaufman's father-in-law. The firm is believed to own about $75,000 in New York and St. Louis, and a hasty computation of its assets makes their amount about $40,000. Both of these amounts may be found larger when the returns are all in. The net capital of the concern was stated by Mr. Kaufman some time since to be $24,000.

A reporter visited the office of the firm immediately after the attachments were made, and found a Bank of Commerce messenger endeavoring to effect.

about four inches which framed the janitor's place.
"You can't see nobody," he remarked, "they're all gone."
"Gone where?"
"Gone where?"
"Gone where?"
"When will they be known. First the ould man and the partners went out, and then the cierks left, and I'm goin prestly soon myself, so go on wid ye."
"When will they be back?"
"They didn't say," and as he spoke the aperture in the door narrowed to a silt about an inch wide, affording a view of one eye which closed derisively as the door banged shut.

MR. ACHARD,
one of the attaching creditors, was found at the office of the Eidenstatt Jewelry Company, on Seventh and Washington avenue, where he is treasurer. He declined to say anything about his claim further than that he had been book-keeper for Kaufman, Cohn & Co. hast year. Mr. Kerr, his attorney, stated that the claim was for money advanced. Mr. Bierman's claim is also for cash.

The present firm succeeded Kaufman, Alheimer & Cohn on the Mh of July, 1983. The business was originally started by L. Lowenstein & Co. and Kaufman, Alheimer & Cohn succeeded Angust, 1980. After drawing out of the concern Mr. Altheimer went into the Eidenstadi Jeweiry Company. Mr. Kaufman was formerly in the wholessie clothing business. The two Cohna have been in millinery all along. The elder Cohn failed once before some years since in the South.

Runors affecting the credit of the firm were afloat in commercial circles yesterday, but inquiry made of Mr. Kaufman brought out the assurance that all the obligations of the concern were being promptly met at maturity. He said that the business had been dail and more than dull during the past few mouths, but that everything would of Mr. Astiman throught out the concern that all the obligations of the concern were being promptly met at maturity. He said that the business had been dull and more than dull during the past few months, but that everything would come out all right.

The millinery business generally has been very had this season owing to the general depression of trude, and it is not a surprise to those best posted that the firm is being crowded. It is assorted that the firm is being crowded, it is assorted that arrangements are in progress by which all the liabilities will be met in full, and that there is a very good prospect of a hundred cents on the dollar for the creditors. It is also asserted that the morning in consultation with their lawyers preparatory to making an assignment. Which of these statements is the true one has not yet developed. It is not believed at the mercantile agencies that the firm can pull out.

PINE STREET SPRINKLING

Property-Owners.

It has been discovered that the sprinkling done during the night on Pine street is not enough to keep the dust down during the day. This is owing to the fact that there are a great many macadamized streets crossing Pine, and that the fine dust surface of those streets is blown all over the asphaltum every day. Therefore, the Board of Public Improvements has given Mr. Joseph a permit to sprinkle the asphaltum on Pine street with his fine sprinkler four times a day. This permit was issued to-day. Street Commissioner Turner wishes it understood, however, that the cost of sprinkling during the day will have to be assumed by the property owners. He says the general understanding is that this impression is erroneous, as the cost will be levied against those who own pro-

The Pavement to be Paid For.

City Counselor Bell received a letter this morning from Congressman James N. Burnes to the effect from Congressman James N. Burnes to the effect that the appropriation to pay for the granite pavement adjoining the Custom House building in this city will be made. The Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives has been convinced by the explanation made to it, that the expenditure is necessary and ought to be provided for. The action of the Government will be gratifying to the people here, and insures the pavement on Eighth and Ninth streets, fronting the building it is already completed on Locust and Olive streets.

Neglecting the Trees.

Park Commissioner Weigel complains that the Exposition people are neglecting the fine-elm trees that are growing about the future great-building. He says that all sorts of building material are dumped against them, and when this is not the case that contractors and others tie their horses to them and that the horses bite the bark of the trees and tear it off to a point eight or nine feet above the sidewalk. The trees are rapidly dying off in consequence of this treatment.

THE SWITCHING CHARGES.

Less than a week ago a priva te citizen of St. Louis laid a tax on the city of three millions of dollars a year.

This tax was imposed on the whole body of the citizens for the benefit of a single corporation. Thus far we have heard of no public

If it had been a special tax levied to pay for some needed improvement, we should have had inent and distinguished citizens up in arms; an organization would have been effected, eminent lawyers would have been retained, injunctions and other legal remedies would have been sought, and no means would have been left untried to avoid the tax, even ton of coal, levied by the manager of the Gould system, a tax which is paid by every con ner of coal, that is, by every citizen of St Louis, is strangely enough, regarded only as an ncident in a war between two railroad factions. The competing coal roads here cut the rates in coal. As an act of retaliation the Gould interest, which controls the switching facilities for the whole city, has imposed a tax of an additional dollar and a half a ton on early two million tons coal used in this city.

Of course this tax must be paid by the consu Of course this is very unfortunate, and we are ery certain that the benevolent despot who has laid this burden on his subjects regrets the nec essity of state which compels him to make them pay the cost of his wars.

Instead of regretting it, we rejoice that so plain a case has arisen to illustrate the absolute power over the commerce of the country held by corporations, and the utter helplessness of the citizens, of the whole body of the people.

As far as the Wabash managers are concerned we do them the justice in saying that in the control of their vast property they have uniformly attempted to do justice to the local interests of St. Louis and to contribute to the growth and prosperity of this city and of its people, so far as lay in their power. In calling attention to a monstrous and inexcusable use of power, we do not wish to censure then specially. We wish to condemn a condition of affairs under which it is possible for the plain rights and legitimate interests of the public to be set aside in this way.

The situation is this: that a private citizen an officer of a corporation chartered by the State, and deriving all its powers from the laws of the State, has, by a stroke of his pen, laid or the people of St. Louis a tax as heavy as the whole burden of taxation required for the nual maintenance of the city government.

This is the situation to-day; it is a situation which is likely to recur at any time. The railroad war will probably soon be over; the railroad factions will soon make peace; the obnox ious tax will be removed-not because the law compels it as a matter of right, not because the people enforce it in assertion of the power of the people to rule in public matters, but simply because it suits the official who imposed the tax to remove it. As long as such a situation in possible the people do not rule; they do not con trol their own public affairs, and the vaunted this cruel attempt should succeed, and the land theory that they are supreme is belied by the > London papers of the late SAM WARD one is tempted to ask whether character counts for as little in London as it does in Wall'street. The one talent by which WARD rose into public notice was that he was skilled in handling the funds of corruptionists wherewith to bribe weak and venal legislators. To this base service he prostituted his social position, his education, his accomplishments and all his abilities. In this shameful career he was, as the Telegraph and the Standard describe him, "generous and sympathetic;" he was generous with other people's money and sympathetic toward those whom he wished to buy, and he was "a genial cosmopolite," inasmuch as no personal scruples or patriotic considerations ever restrained him in his dealings. He was renowned as a dinner-giver, but we trust that but I'm just going in and tell the clerk that I didn't no one who knows anything of the American Congressman "on the make" will as us to believe that such creatures cared about one of WARD's dinners, or will in any way insinuate that this was the only form of influence he dealt in. The Boston Woman in Stocks. From the Boston Advertiser.

It is related as a grave and solemn verity that two ladies met at the door of a Boston "ladies' broker," when one cried in great excitement: "Oh, dear Mrs. X., I don't know but I am ruined. I sold long or short on Dan and Beersheba Railroad bonds, and, for the life of me, I don't know which, but if it's c'ou't take on so, my dear," was the reply, "it's jus the same with me on Camaralzaman m mean a word of what I said yesterday, whatever it was." Danger in Potatoes.

From the Charleston (S. C.) News.

A young German, Henry Hulsner, of Savannal sent a barrel of Georgia potatoes to his father, re-siding in the town of Hanover, Prussia. A letter from Mr. Hulsner states that the German officials seized the potatoes and searched his father's hous and put him under police surveillance, the Georgia roots being magnified into a Socialist plot to introduce the Colorado potato bug into the empire.

To the Editor of the Fost-Dispatch:

Would it not be a good suggestion for the people of this city to have a mass meeting on the subject of control the Council and House to keep the aable railway bills down. Now there are two cable railway bills before the House and Council, and one in particular—the Creve Cour line—seem to be in earnest to build, and say they will commence work in thirty days after the passage of the bill. Now, if the biessed Aldermen are afraid to pass this bill, would not a general mass-meeting to assist them to stiffen up their backbones and quiet the street railroad companies, and get this bill passed, be a good idea? as, if we delay too long, the populace might get excited, and we might have a recurrence here of the Cincinnati riots; but instead of the jail being attacked the street railroads holding this power might be attacked and some of their tracks be picked up and carried to various parts of the city. The citizens are getting tired of this holding back the rapid transit schemes. We want and must have the cable railways.

There is only one way to stop the mischlef and save the victims. The National "Opium Joint" must be raided. There must be a complete change at the fountain-head, the national capital.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch. New York, May 22.—A movement is in progress in the congregation of the Temple Emanuel, No. 521 the congregation of the Tempie Emanue, Ac. on Fifth Avenue, to revise the ritual and possibly to change the day of service from Saturday to Sun-day. At a recent business meeting of the members the rabbi, Gustav Gotthell, submitted a paper giving his views on these questions, and at his suggestion the president, Mr. Lewis May, appointed a commit-tee of afteen to take the matter into consideration and prepare a report, to be submitted to a

Dr. Gottheil stated that the attendance at the ser vices as decreasing and that there appeared to be a lack of interest in the congregation, which was to be deplored. He was of the opinion that the time a lack of interest in the congregation, which was to be deplored. He was of the opinion that the time had arrived when an enlightened public sentiment demanded a thorough revision of the present retual. He thought the service in the English language would be more effective than the present Hebralcone, preserving perhaps, sufficient of the ancient language to prevent its entire disuse. There should, also, he thought, be more of variety to it, and he also favored more congregational music. He then called attention to the fact that the weekly services were held on a day when it was very inconvenient for many of the congregation to attend and suggested the wision of changing the day. In relation to this matter, Dr. Gottheil said last evening: "This is a subject on which my trustees and myself are in perfect accord. The matter has been discussed by us for a long time past, and finally they said to me, "Write us a letter on this subject cushracing these views, and we will submit it to the congregation." Yesterday's Games.

More than 2,500 people were thoroughly disgusted at the Union Park yesterday afternoon at the games. There was not the slightest fault to find with the home nine. They played a hard, earnest game as they have always done, and under the discourag she home nine. They played a hard, earnest game, as they have always done, and under the discouraging circumstances, their whole work might be regarded as decidedly brilliant. But the men from the Hub wound up the contest with an exhibition of sulkiness, which showed little konsideration for the large crowd, including many adies, which had gone out, notwithstanding the weather, to see the game. Game opened promptly at 4 o'clock in a drizzling rain. Bond and -Brown were the Boston battery, Hodnett and Brennan loing the same work for St. Louis. Tim Murnan was on the first bag for Boston, and the visitors were supposed to have their big rine. St. Louis opened up with 3 runs in the 1st inning, 2 in the 33 and 1 in the 6th, the latter being largely the gift of Umpire Holland, as the man who scored it was plainly put out both at second and third. Boston got singles in the first and fourth mings. At the close of the sixth inning, with the score standing 6 to 2 in favo of St. Louis, rain fell so heavily that the Umpire Holland, following the rule ordered the men back to play. To this both capans objected. Tommy Bond was especially anxous to quit, and was only persuaded to take the led because the umpire compelled him to do so. the Bostons walked out with their street coats, some wearing long frocks. Bond, who had been pitching well, sulked clear through, and dropped all the balls right on the bat. The St. Louis men could not help litting them, and as a result they scored seven runs in the remaining three innings. Boston got one ally, contrary to Captain Bond's vish, the final score being 13 to 3. in the ninth inning Brown, Boston's catcher, over-hitting them, and as a result they scored seven runs in the remaining three innings. Boston got one tally, contrary to Captain Bond's wish, the final score being 13 to 3. In the ninth inning Brown, Boston's catcher, overthrew third in an attempt to put Taylor out. Crane, who had run in from left to back up third, fielded the ball home quickly, but Mr. Brown quietly stepped out of the way, let the ball go back to the seats and allowed the run to be scored. The crowd hissed him soundly, as he richly deserved. He made no excuse about the matter, saying plainly that he did not want to catch the ball. The play of theBostons during the last it se innings was shameful. Nobody expected to see them beat Dunlap's men, because all who have seen the two games, know that the feat is almost impossible for Boston, at least. But the sulky and general bad play of some of the team was an insult to the audience. The exhibition will certainly diminish their audiences here for a long time to come. The St. Louis men all did well, Whitehead at short taking off the fielding honers.

The St. Louis Browns retrieved their bad ball playing of the past two games in Toledo, by again settling down to business and winning an excellent victory from Toledo, by a score of 4 to 1. Davis demonstrated his ability to cope with the best of pitchers, and received unusually fine support from the Browns. Tom-Dolan caught him in fine style, and the batting work saved the day. Mullane did the Toledo's twirling, supported by Walker, their colored catcher. The Browns hit him for four singles, by Nichol, Latham, Dolan and Davis, Comiskey getting a double-bagger. Poorman, Miller, Moffit and Tilley were the only Toledo men able to get on to Davis, each making a single. The Browns unexcelled base running again came into good play, and no doubt, contributed largely to their victory, It was a pitcher's battle, and Davis did magnificently. No other American Association games were played, the twelve clubs competing to-day. Providence is teaching a lesson to the pompous pentup New Yorkers, who strut the diamond with turkey gobbler pose, and again won a desperate battle in a superbly played game, sending them to Chicago, 3 to 0. Radbourne pitched his greatesst, and the New Yorkers fell to his cannon balls like jambs to the slaughter. Ward, Comer and Welch each made a single, all to no avail. The Providence men scored their first run in the third inning on a two-bagger by Hines, and an error of lickingnon; who let an easy grounder from Smith's bat pass him. In the sixth Irwin and Denny scored on errors of big Conners, and Denny's single bagger. But four hits were made off Ward, and had he been well supported the tale would have been different. This is the gilt-edged team's third defeat this season, and their only Chicago game. It was one of the grandest exhibitions of ball-playing New York has ever witnessed.

Boston did up Philadelphia in a stubbornly fought game, winning by a 3 to I score. Philadelphia made but two errors, but Boston took kindly to Coleman, making nine singles and but three errors. Philadelphia succumbed only after a hard fight.

i looking at the facts contained in some of the depositions told Mrs. Nave that he would not have that evidence go into court for all he money old man Navi had. The result was that, when the case came to trial, the serious allegations contained in Nave's petition were withdrawn. Mrs. Nave withdrew her answer, and the case was submitted to the court or written testimony. The Judge, after reading the evidence, said the only excuse he could find for the conduct of defendant, and the only thing that would cause any hesitancy in granting the deeree, was in the supposition that she was crazy. The decree was granted, however. It contains no stipulations as to any money to be paid. It is believed, however, that there was a compromise of some kind, as Mrs. Nave leaves this week for Europe to join her daughter, Miss Lillie Woolridge, who is attending school at Munich. Old man Nave is 60 years of age and worth a million and a half.

Which created considerable sensation, has finally been settled. About a year ago Prof. T. J. Bryant, proprietor of Bryant's Commercial College here, applied for a divorce from his wife. Bryant was laine, in fact was unable to walk at all, and he charged his wife with neglect both of himself and of wifely duties. Mrs. Bryant had a grown up son by a former husband, who was a worthless, drunken fellow, and his conduct greatly enraged the stepfather, and to murder both herself and her soon with a butcher-knife on sundry occasions. Bryant sold a fine brick mansion he had just erected, sold out his college and went to Colorado, leaving his wife here. A short time ago he returned, legal proceedings were abandoned, and a reconciliation took place. Both are now living happily together at Indianapolis, where the Professor lived in his younger days.

Rivalry Among Ladies Who Are Getting Up Collections.

"I want a Black spitz," said a lady who entered a Chestnut street crockery store yesterday,
"I am very sorry, ma'am, but I sold the last one this morning," replied the salesman.
"Oh, that's too bad. I'm simply ruined without one. Can't you get it for me? Do you expect any more? I've gone everywhere, and nobody has one left. No matter about the price—only get me the black spitz."
"I'll take your order. ma'am, and try to get one for you," said the salesman as the lady left the store.
"What does all that mean?" asked a reporter who heard the conversation. "Why does she come here for a 'black spitz."
"O, she wants a china spitz, not a live dog. Don't you know about the rage for china dogs? No? Well, sir, it's the thing now to make collections of dogs in china, delf, glass, bisque and everything of that kind and arrange them on parlor etageres or cabinets. Some people try to get as many dogs as possible, without regard particularly to the kind of dog; others make a point of getting more of one kind than anybody else. Now, the lady who was here a minute ago has doubtless seen a friend who had collected more specimens of the spitz than she had, and a black spitz, being somewhat rare, would be a triumph for her.
"A lady who bought a pug with a bell collar here a day or two ago, told me she made every one of her friends present her with a dog costing from five cents up, and her collection now, including those she had bought, numbered 149. She had them arranged on an etagere all to themselves, and the effect, she said was 'too cunning.'
"Which is the favorite kind? The pug has been until lately, but the buil-terrier is coming in now. He's the popular pet dog at present, and of course his popularity extends into the china. Let me show you our dogs. You'll be surprised at the variety of the stock."

The mastiff, the buil, the Newfoundland, the collie, the setter, the pointer, the spaniel, the pug, the hound, the buil-terrier, the skye, the black and-tan, the poodle, and the cur were all there ranging in size from the poodle half an inch high to the life-size mastiff squatting on his haunches. There were single dogs, dogs in pairs, and families of dogs. A white spitz mother was surrounded by a litter of puppies, each little fellow being represented in a different position at play. A family of pugs, father, mother, and six young ones, made another group. There were dogs standing, sitting, lying, crouching and "begging."

"Is the dog craze something new?"

"Oh, people always bought them to some extent, but the collection craze is new. They take 'em periodically, you know. Some time ago it was cats. They are sold now mostly to old ladies, though a dog-collector will often buy a few cats to scatter among her dogs to give life to the assortment. Cats with their backs up are generally selected, and they are placed in front of dogs that are showing fight. You noticed, that some of the dogs had very pretty collars. Well, that's a great point with the ladies. They have a weakness for pretty dog-collars, and I've lad some of them ask for a dog that they could fit a gold ring on for a collar. And they really do decorate the favorite china beast with a ring and stand him up on the etagere. Strange! Oh, no; it gives them pleasure—why shouldn't they do it?

HEALING POWERS OF TOBACCO.

Total Blindness From Accident Cured by a Poultice.

Gen. Clingman, of North Carolina, has an article in Health and Home in which he relates wonderful tales of cures effected upon himself at divers times by the simple use of tobacco. His troubles were many, and ranged from gunshot wounds to corns. The following is one of the cures: In the summer of 1867, in the city of New York, as I was riding in an omnibus, while looking out of an open window I received a heavy blow on my right eye from the .whip of the driver, who had aimed the blow at the head of a horse which seemed about to interfere with him. He missed the horse's head, and the full force of the end of the whip fell directly on the center of my open eye. The pain was excessive, and the sight of the eye was enti-ely taken away—absolute blackness seemed before it. Passengers in the stage said to me:

"You had better get out and seek relief, for you do not know how that eye looks." I soon reached my hotel, and on getting 'into it, sent one servant for a piece of tobacco and another for two physicians with whom I was acquainted. The tobacco came first, and, just as I had placed it on and secured it with proper bandages, the doctors came in. I told them what had happened, and that I had just put on the tobacco. They said tobacco would be ruin-

for two physicians with whom I was acquainted. The tobacco came first, and, just as I had placed it on and secured it with proper bandages, the doctors came in. I told them what had happened, and that I had just put on the tobacco. They said tobacco would be ruingous. As soon as I got off the bandage and they are the tobacco. They said: "It will be very difficult to save that eye." I replied that if it could be saved the tobacco poultice would do it. They reiterated their objections, but I told them I should try it, and asked them to come back in the morning. After they left I restored the tobacco poultice would do it. They reiterated their objections, but I told them I should try it, and asked them to come back in the morning. After they left I restored the tobacco and kept it well wet by putting my face from time to time in a bowl of water, so as to retain the moisture steadily. The night was not from time to time in a bowl of water, so as to retain the moisture steadily. The night was not from time to time in a bowl of water, so as to retain the moisture steadily. The night was not from time to time in a bowl of water, so as to retain the moisture steadily. The night was not from time to time in a bowl of water, so as to retain the moisture steadily. The night was not the morning I still suffered. About I0 o'clock one of the past, she in the morning I still suffered. About I0 o'clock one of the phadage. As soon as I did so I knew that the eye was better, for I could see the outlines of the open window before me. The doctor immediately sadii: "I never was so astonished in my life, for your eye, instead of being swollen and red, as I expected to see it, is shrunk and less than the other eye, and the lida are white." He insisted that he ought to be allowed to stimulate it by an application, but as I did not desire to have a premature reaction I refused. Though the eye was not very painful, I kept tobacco on it for the greater part of the day, where the pain seemed to extend across the iris, and my whole eye loo

How to Produce Pleasing Effects in Ribbon Beds So Much in Favor. From the New York Evening Post:

Prom the New York Evening Post:

Planting in masses, or "ribboning," is, at this season, interesting, and occupies thousands of persons who have suburban country seats, the effects being so much more striking and attractive than the old way of planting mixed flower-beds. If the lawn is a large one, beds of one kind of plant only are best, particularly for a distant view. The finest effects in beds of one color are reached by making them oval or circular, and planting with scarlet geraniums ("Summit of Perfection," "Bishop Wood" and "Ernest Louth," being double and brilliant, pink geraniums, blue labella, blue ageratum.

BEATING THE GAME.

The Bucket-Shop Men Trying to Get Chicago Quotations.

Brandley's Messenger-Boy System Beaten—Frank Curtis' Field-Glass Scheme—Windows to be Cur-

The members of the Merchants' Exchange were not nearly so intent upon transacting business this morning as upon keeping the proprietors of the bucket-shops from stealing their Chicago quotation.

morning as upon keeping the proprietors of the bucket-shops from stealing their Chicago quotations. It was rather amusing to an outsider to observe the various movements in the fight, as, of course, the bucket-shop men did not give in until they had exhausted every method of receiving the quotations. It may be said to the credit of Fred Von Phul and Frank Norvell that they discontinued their Chicago quotations this morning altogether, and for this, they were patted on the shoulder by their Exchange. Fred Von Phul, in the midst of an excited group, said: "No, gentlemen, I won't transact any underhand business. You betcher' life. But I'll do the best I can to get those Chicago quotations. It may cost me a heap of money, and all I'm afraid of is that they'll be late, but I'm going to get them or throw up my hands." This was afer Al Brandley had been discovered in a nise little scheme. Al had a man in the Exchange who made notes on quotations and gave them to a skirmish line of messenger boys, who assaulted him one after the other. The boys were followed, and it was learned that they gave their notes to an operator, who transmitted them by wire to Brandley. As soon as this scheme was discovered, the enterprising foor manager gave the man who was making notes a chance to walk out. This closed Mr. Brandley's shop. The only place then running was that of Frank Curtis. It was noticed that Mr. Curtis gave all Chicago quotations correctly except pork, and conjecture as to the manner in which he secured them finally settled down on the belief that he had tapped a wire somewhere and was drinking in the flood of good, unobtainable quotations. The question of how to prevent him was then agitated. A Poer-Diaparton reporter called on Mr. Curtis and asked him if he intended to keep his piace running right straight along, and the little gentleman with the large white moustache gave the inevitable American answer, "Well, have you any objection to confiding to me the manner in which you get the quotations?" the newspaper man asked

"Well, have you any objection to confiding to me the manner in which you get the quotations?" the newspaper man asked sweetly.

"Well, slightly I have," said Mr. Curtis. "That's a matter of business."

"How long are you going to keep it up?"

"Just as long as I can. All I have to say is this: I am getting my

QUOTATIONS LEGITIMATELY,
and I will continue to do so, if possible. Of course it's expensive, but I think I can stand it."

"If the Exchange attemps to stop you will you proceed against them?"

"We haven't thought about that at all. I can tell you better later on."

When the news-gatherer returned to the floor of the Exchange he observed operators, call-boys and others looking up at two young men in the gallery, who were walking along to a point opposite the board. These men were Al. Tong and Will Beckley, two telegraph operators. It was suspected that another effort to beat the game was being made, and the young gentlemen were watched with some interest. When they finally stopped, opposite the board, it was noticed that they gazed rather earnestly into a half-opened window in the building just to the rear. It was also observed that a wire led into the open window. The young gentlemen remained just a moment and then left the gallery. When they appeared on the floor they reported that they had discovered Mr. Curtis' little scheme. Stationed within the window were a man with a field-glass and an operator with an instrument. The man with the field-glass hadra fine view of the Chicago quotations, and was giving them to his companion. But he could not see through the wall to the pork corner. Hence the pork quotations were not given in Mr. Curtis' hipp. There was a general laugh as the story passed around, and every man in the Exchange felt it his jounden duty to look at the window. President Francis and Secretary Morgan held a consultation, the result of which was that President Francis announced that the windows on that side would be curtained. This was done, and Mr. Curtis ceased to give Chicago quotations.

would continue to keep his youthful help.
"Certainly. No cooper can get employment here now unless he is well known in St. Louis for steady behavior."
"Wouldn't workmen from other places be taken?"
"No; they must be known here. It is simply a measure of safety adopted by any employer who has been unfortunate in his selection of men. The market is not especially brisk just now, anyway, and enough coopers can be found who can give local recommendations to do the necessary work."
